OLD RESIDENT GIVEN UP BY PHYSICIANS

"Given up by five doctors, my only hope an operation, I rebelled at cutting me open, as I am 75 years old. A neighbor advised trying my old remedy for stomach trouble. I got relief right away. I had not eaten for 10 days and was as yellow as a gold piece. I could have lived only a few days but for this medicine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. W. H. Mills Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

WHO OWNS THE AIR

"Who owns the air?" is a question that has been debated time and again without being settled. The advent of the airplane and radio brings it up again, and in Lancaster, Pa., it has been put to the courts. There two airplanes crashed together, and in falling wrecked a house. One judge said that the property-owner is entitled to damage done his home, because he owns everything above and below the land set aside in his deed. He also decided that towns have absolute rights in fixing the height at which planes shall or shall not fly above them. He says men control the air above them to whatever height it extends, and the ground below them clear through to the center of the globe. We don't know that any of our citizens around Statesboro are contemplating legal action involving the question, but the time may come when an airplane right-of-way above their lands will actually be valuable. So it may after all be a deeper problem than we imagine, this question of who owns the air.

Most of our former bartenders have gone to work, but the reformers are still hanging around waiting for jobs.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TREATIES REJECTED

RUSSIAN EXPLANATION THAT LETTER WAS FORGIVEN RE- FUSED BY BALDWIN

RUSS GOVERNMENT NOTIFIED

Return of Conservative Policy of Refusing Concessions To Russia Indicated By Double Blast

London.—Great Britain, through the medium of the new Conservative regime, has repudiated the Anglo-Russian treaties negotiated by the late Socialist government of Premier Ramsay MacDonald.

Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister of the Baldwin government, has dispatched a note to Moscow, advising the Soviet union that the document has been reviewed and rejected.

Simultaneously, Chamberlain sent a second note to the Russian government, affirming the authenticity of the "Zinoviev letter," and refusing to accept the Russian explanation that the letter was a forgery, and sent without the knowledge or consent of the Soviet union.

"I have the honor to inform you," Chamberlain wrote to Christian Rakovsky, Soviet union representative in London, "that, after due consideration, his majesty's government find themselves unable to recommend the ratification of the consideration of preliminary or to submit them to the king for his signature."

Continuing, the foreign secretary said:

"I must further observe that you would entirely misapprehend the character of representations made to you by my predecessor if you supposed they dealt with Zinoviev's letter only."

"Activities of which his majesty's government complain are not confined to that particular letter, but to the constant extent to the whole body of revolutionary propaganda, of which the letter is a fair specimen, and which is sometimes conducted in secret and sometimes, as you rightly remarked, not concealed."

Thus passes the international document wherein the Socialist government of England pledged itself to guarantee a loan to the Soviet union. It was the guarantee clause that aroused the greatest opposition to the treaty, when the negotiations were under way last summer. The Soviet union demanding a loan guaranteed by the British government. When the treaty conference had been terminated with both sides admitting their inability to agree, MacDonald authorized his representatives to grant the Soviet demand for such a loan.

The text of Chamberlain's note to Rakovsky, replying to the Russian note of October 25, regarding the Zinoviev letter, follows, in part:

"I had under consideration your October 25th reply to a note which my predecessor addressed to you regarding activities of the Communist international in this country."

"In the third paragraph of the reply, you undertook to declare, apparently on internal evidence alone and without allowing time for any reference to Moscow, that the letter from Zinoviev, which was the occasion of Mr. MacDonald's representation, was a gross forgery."

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Howell Cone says one of the best habits a fellow can have is trying to discover his mistakes before somebody else does.

One of the mysteries of life is how a tall girl can cuddle up so comfortably in a little low-seated runabout.

Dr. Crouch declares that all he goes for is to be able to live long enough to see the time when the country won't waste good money in trying to find out where campaign contributions come from.

Behind the wheel of an automobile is a dangerous place to sleep, unless a fellow wants to take the long sleep.

Up to the hour of going to press we haven't found a single soul crying in sympathy for the New York woman who had $250,000 worth of diamonds stolen from her dressing table.

"What I've never been able to figure out," asserts W. G. Raines, "is why a woman first looks at another woman's hair and then reaches up to fix her own."

Joe Fields says he has come to the conclusion that a bachelor can be a fool and live in blissful ignorance of the fact, but that a married man is reminded of it a dozen times a day.

"This is the land of free speech," says Prof. Hilly, "but just look at the quality of some of the speeches."

For Consideration of The Public Generally

under one name or another has been engaged in the mercantile business in Bulloch county and Statesboro almost continuously during the last forty years.

R. SIMMONS

is one of largest interior buyers of cotton in this section of Georgia, and it is generally agreed that the high prices always paid by him account in large measure for Statesboro's reputation as one of the best cotton markets in Georgia.

R. SIMMONS

having always paid very high prices for cotton and other farm products, and particularly for his customers' cotton, feels that the mercantile business of the R. Simmons Company is entitled to special consideration and generous patronage from the public, particularly in view of the fact that an up-to-date and complete stock of merchandise of excellent quality is always carried and offered at most favorable prices. Continued payment of very full service for farm products is impossible without good patronage and large volume of business.

R. Simmons Co.

believes in helping those who give it their business, and, in line with this policy followed for forty years by its funder, expects to continue to pay the highest prices warranted for cotton and other farm products, always giving special preference in this respect to its customers' offerings.

upon this basis, with a large and splendid stock of merchandise and ample resources to handle business in large volume, solicits the patronage of the public generally, promising excellent values and fair treatment at all times.

THE BOOM IN STOCKS

It didn't take long for the stock and bond markets to get busy following the election, though men who keep posted on such affairs state that the feverish selling would have taken place regardless of what party was victorious. Reports from Wall Street show that the upward bound of prices has been remarkable, many stocks going to the highest point they have reached for years.

All of this kind of news is of interest, for it indicates better prices for farm products and possibly better wages for those who do not live off the land. But at the same time we are able to see a note of danger in it that will encourage the dealer in worthless stocks and bonds to reap a harvest along with those who deal only in gilt-edge securities. There is already enough worthless stock hidden away in homes around Statesboro to serve as a warning, but it won't do any such thing. With the stock market booming, as it is now booming, and men cleaning up big money, other men are going to jump in blindly and buy stocks without investigating their value.

The soaring stock market indicates prosperous times—and we are all glad of that. But not prosperous times for the man who buys blindly or takes some stranger's word for the value of the stock. Liberty bonds and government bonds are still the safest buy in the world, but if you feel you want more interest, or more profit on your money, then ask a banker's advice before you lay down your cash or sign any kind of agreement.

PLENTY OF FUEL

Old winter is ready to sit down and pay as his usual visit. Heavy snows have fallen in various sections, while many parts of the country are reporting temperatures well down below freezing point. But the entire nation seems to be better prepared for the cold siege than ever, for from a fuel standpoint conditions couldn't be very much brighter. This year there is plenty of coal, mined and stored and ready for delivery, and the price at this time is fair, when some previous prices are considered. Mines have been running for an entire year without any serious labor trouble, and the railroads have been able to distribute coal in such a way as to insure against a fuel famine in any section of the country.

Statesboro users of coal for fuel must remember, however, that the demand for it is going to grow heavier from now on, and heavier demand will have a tendency to increase prices. Those who have not at least a full winter's supply, or at least all they can conveniently handle at one time, can probably save considerable money now by doing so. We have been witnessing a steady advance in the price of coffee in the United States for the past several weeks, and coffee importers say it will go as high as 75c and 81c a pound by January. They explain that revolutionaries have been destroying coffee plantations in Brazil, and there is a great shortage ahead.

But regardless of this, we'll get coffee, and if we are wise in our fuel buying, we'll save enough on our coffee to make up the extra amount our coffee will cost us this winter.

BUYING BY PICTURES

There are quite a few people in Statesboro who do their buying by picture. They look over a catalogue and read the glowing descriptions. Their mind can't stand the strain, it sounds too good, the picture is too pretty, so they shoot their money for goods to come in the mail a week or two later. Not only do they pay cash, but they pay in advance, and goods. Not only this, but these same people, when they haven't the change handy, buy at local stores and frequently let the bill run eight or ten months. If the local merchant doesn't extend credit they get mad and begin to talk about how his prices are, if they get something that isn't satisfactory, however, they shoot it back to the home merchant. If they bought it by picture and get "stung" they keep it to themselves—but go right ahead and get stung a second time. Verily, buying by picture is a funny and an expensive proposition.

WORKING CHILDREN

We read a good deal of unnecessary "hot stuff" these days about child labor, and now come a proposal from an eastern organization that a new amendment be adopted to the constitution to prohibit working children. Those favoring it seem to be those that multitudes of small towns are sweating in the mines, and fields and about machinery, and the opponents, mostly farm organizations, argue that it is a scheme to deprive the farm of its youthful help. So far we see conditions around Statesboro both sides are exaggerating. We see children working, and yet have our first time to note any indication of "slavery" or cruelty or brutality on the part of those for whom they work. We want them to have an opportunity to get an education, of course. But there is no reason why they should not attend small tasks during the time they would otherwise be doing. The child-labor argument looks very much like another attempt to fob a new "bureau" on the government, with a lot of fat jobs done at Washington—and the money coming out of taxpayers' pockets to pay the salaries.

IF YOU WOULD LIVE

If you want to live to see the trees grow green again and to feel the balmy breezes of spring, don't run your auto engine in a closed garage. Don't run it for even three minutes without having the door or window open, or carbon monoxide gas will get you. The gas is colorless, tasteless and almost odorless, but it quickly kills by paralyzing the respiratory organs in a closed space. Often loss of consciousness before he realizes what is happening. A 23-horse power auto will discharge enough of the deadly gas in a closed garage on a cold day to kill the healthiest person within five minutes time. There is little danger in the summer, because garage doors are left open, but in cold weather when the driver wants to warm up his engine, or when he wants to do a little work on the car indoors, the number of deaths from this deadly gas mounts up enormously. They have already occurred in numerous parts of the country. Let's not have any around Statesboro. Leave the garage doors open every minute that the auto engine is running.

A HELPFUL STUDY

We notice where rural schools in a number of places over the country are adding a helpful course in simple farm accounting. The teachers devote a little time daily to teaching the boys how to keep a set of books—not a double entry or complicated bookkeeping system, but enough of the fundamentals to enable them after a few months to be able to keep track of farm accounts, to tell what has been paid out, when, to whom, and what for, and to keep track of all revenues derived from the farm. Whether the lad remains on the farm or enters some other trade or profession, this simple little study of bookkeeping is bound to be worth something in teaching lessons in fractions and in profit and loss—studies that are a bugaboo to every boy who looks into an arithmetic. We are passing the idea along to rural teachers around Statesboro in the belief that, since it is proving successful elsewhere, it might be of worth looking into more thoroughly.

CABBAGE HEAD

If you happen to be inquisitive you may want to figure out how many cabbage heads there are in the Statesboro area. You may be interested to know that cabbage has become one of our three most important vegetables. Potatoes are first, and tomatoes are second. Nearly half the cabbage crop comes from the south, and the earliest in the market always commands the best price. Kraut is made from the big-headed cabbage, and has ceased to be a northern type, and is now being raised in the south. Everybody eats kraut now, and physicians say it is full of health-giving vitamins. They argue the cabbage eater is nearly always a healthy person, and that cabbage adds to vigor. So we guess we'll have to commence rating this vegetable as among the very best brands of "food" the human race can cultivate.

U. S. Grain Exports Show Increase. Exports of grain from the United States for the week ended November 22 amounted to 9,027,000 bushels, as compared with 8,522,000 bushels in the previous week. Exports made public by the commerce department show the following shipments compared with the previous week: Wheat, 1,644,000 bushels, against 1,606,000; corn, 325,000, against 458,000; barley, 907,000, against 1,106,000; Canadian grain, 2,722,000 bushels, against 2,722,000 bushels.

TERRACE NEEDED ON ROLLING FARM LANDS

(W. D. HILLIS, County Agent)

The best time to terrace your land is in the fall immediately after crops are harvested. Weather conditions are usually most favorable for terracing at this season than later in the winter or early spring, and furthermore, fall-built terraces are preferred as they become settled and protect the land against the winter rains.

Erosion injuries and sometimes ruin fertile lands in a number of ways. The upper and most fertile parts of the soil are washed away until the land becomes barren and unproductive. Deep gullies are formed which are a constant source of danger to cultivation. Rich bottom lands are covered with deposits of sand washed from the hill lands. The steeper the slopes, the greater is the erosive action of the running water. For instance, if the power of the water to carry away soil particles increases about 82 times.

Since erosion is due largely to the rapid movement of the rain water over the surface of the ground, methods of preventing erosion must cause the water to either sink into the soil or flow away slowly over the surface to a drainage ditch or outlet.

In order to drink up surface water rapidly a soil must be very permeable, that is, it must contain fairly open spaces through which the rain water can pass easily, or where it can be stored temporarily. Some soils are naturally permeable, for instance, newly cleared lands. There are a number of ways of increasing the permeability of a soil—deep plowing, plowing under organic matter such as manure, stubble, stalks, and cover crops, by the use of explosives.

Terracing is the most effective method of preventing erosion, and it is much more effective when all of the above methods are employed in connection with it.

There are several different kinds of terraces, but for our county the ridge terrace will meet practically every need. There are three kinds of ridge terraces: The narrow base, the broad base level ridge terrace, and the broad base graded ridge terrace. The broad base level ridge terrace is the one that is given fall along the terrace for the purpose of carrying the surface water to outlet channels at the ends of the terrace. The entire terrace is cultivated, as with the broad base level terrace. When first built these terraces are from 10 to 20 feet broad at the base and are gradually broadened by methods of plowing each year.

I will be glad to give terracing demonstrations for the benefit of farmers who are interested. Let me hear if I can help you.

Old-Time Cough Remedy—Pine Tar and Honey—Still Best
According to specialists, there is really nothing better or quicker-acting for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, pneumonia, croup and throat irritation than good old pine tar and honey. No matter whether the cough is dry and tight, or loose with much mucus, the pine tar quickly aids in the removal of the mucus and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing, also relieving soreness, while the honey both soothes irritation and gives a pleasant taste.

The original compound, which has been used in thousands of families for many years, is Dr. Bell's Pine Tar and Honey. It has had many imitations, but still remains the best, as it contains the purest pine tar and honey in the world. It is the only preparation which has been found to aid in the removal of mucus or to relieve the irritation of the throat. It contains absolutely no harmful or injurious ingredients. It is given to young and old alike. If you want the best, be sure you get the original Dr. Bell's Pine Tar and Honey. Only one can give you good results.

GEORGIA PEANUT GROWERS COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION

Albany, Ga., Nov. 24.—Peanuts continue to roll into the warehouses of the Georgia Peanut Growers Cooperative Association at such a rate, according to officers of that cooperative association, that some of the warehouses are already filled above the doors and it is now necessary to pour the latest deliveries in through openings in the roofs of the buildings.

Deliveries already made by the members of this association are more than twice the total recorded on the corresponding date of last year, the first of the association's history and fifty per cent greater than the total of last year. And they are still coming. Association spokesmen declare, with the earlier Georgia crop just beginning to move in considerable volume.

Despite the heavy deliveries and the consequent taxing of warehouse facilities, the cooperative organization is taking care of all peanuts delivered by its members, officials explained. It has been necessary, however, to provide additional space in some places of heaviest deliveries, but emergency measures have been employed in ample time in every place to take care of the deliveries as fast as they have been received.

The Peanut Association is still advancing a first payment to its members as fast as they deliver, the basis being $65.00 a ton on No. 1 grade of White Spanish. This amounts to nearly as much as some growers have received from outright sales of their peanuts. The peanut co-op will market its member's peanuts in an orderly manner, just as the needs of the consuming trade demand, and make payments on balance of the member's equity at a later date. The entire proceeds of the sales, less the actual operating expenses of the association, are turned over to the members, the organization being a non-profit association.

Germany will not allow British-made whiskey to enter that country. The United States is not so particular. We heard a well-known Statesboro woman say yesterday that it seems to take the pickle dish among wedding presents longer to pass around the corner and out of style than anything else.

Statesboro women will be glad to know that style decrees that suspenders are again fashionable for men. That will solve many an X-mas problem.

Yes, sometimes. It ends needless suffering and sorrow; it brings eternal peace. After all, it is the end of life for which in itself we should all be grateful. Certain it is, the passing of a loved one should be memorialized in one of our beautiful monuments.

SAYS GEORGIA SHOULD CARE FOR HER VETERANS

Editor and Readers of the Bulloch Times:

I want somebody to tell me why the state of Georgia can't pay her old soldiers as much pension as other states. Now, I can prove by eye witnesses and by history that Georgia has some as good soldiers as any other state had. Georgia furnished 2,840 more soldiers in the Virginia Army than any other Confederate state. North Carolina came next. Georgia was called the banner state of the Confederacy, and is now the richest southern state and can't pay her old soldiers. The state pays $8.33 1/3 per month—just about enough to buy his ration if he has no other income. He can't buy his clothes nor pay a doctor bill, see?

Wright's Georgia brigade went farthest in the fight at Gettysburg. Any brigade in Lee's Army, Wright's Georgia brigade, Wilcox Alabama brigade, and Finnegans Florida brigade formed in battle line, Wright's in the center, Wilcox's on the right and Finnegans on the left. When they made the charge, three brigades abreast, they took the first line of Yankee works and the Yankees flanked the Florida brigade and they had to run out. The line moved on and took the second line of works, when the Yankees flanked the Alabama brigade and they had to run out. Wright's brigade went on 300 yards further, took the second line, and twenty cannons, when she was flanked and had to run out and lost more men coming out than she did going in. When she came out the Yankees were around her in the shape of a horse shoe. There is not a battle field nor hospital, cemetery nor Yankee prison but what some poor Georgia boy was kept to take his last long sleep, see?

BOYS IN HOSPITAL FORM SCOUT CHAPTER

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—A story that has touched the heart-strings of all who have heard it has come to light here with the receipt by local Boy Scout headquarters of an application for a charter for ten of the little crippled boys at the Scottish Rite Hospital for crippled children in Decatur, a suburb of Atlanta.

Every one of these is crippled—some are almost bed-ridden—but were they granted a charter? They were, and now they are known as Boy Scout troop No. 44, with Joseph Oglesby as scoutmaster and W. L. McKoy as assistant. They are Glen, Henry C. Heinz and Forrest Adair, prominent Atlanta business men, compose the troop committee. The boys have been busy for a week learning to tie their "tender-foot" knots. Scout in spirit and in name, although their crippled bodies will not allow them to do all the things that Scout like to do.

THE CHURCH "SLACKER"

Because less than 60 per cent of the people of the United States are church members, we are soon to see in this country what promises to be the greatest religious revival in its history. We send out this notice in advance to Statesboro people who do not attend church may get ready to do so, and so those who are church members may prepare for the parts they will be expected to play in the great revival. As now planned it will be in progress at the same time in every protestant church in America, big or little. There are, according to recent figures, 115,000,000 people in the U. S., and less than 60,000,000 of them attend church. Every pastor in the nation will be asked to enlist his congregation in this gigantic revival, and while no date has been set it promises to be an event of such far-reaching effect and widespread interest that it will fill all worth watching and waiting for.

WOMAN'S CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Statesboro Woman's Club was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jesse O. Johnston on Savannah avenue, the program and education committees being hostesses to the club.

In the business session a motion was adopted that the club use its influence to get the city council to make and enforce rules and regulations relative to the use of covered garbage cans on the streets. This was referred to the Public Welfare committee, which committee will take further action in the matter.

A memorial program for the heroic dead of our four wars was given as follows: Sketches of American Revolution, Mrs. Geo. Donaldson; Confederate War, Mrs. J. C. Lane; Spanish American War, Mrs. Walter Johnson; World War, Miss Elma Wimberly; reading, "Crossing the Bar," Mrs. J. O. Johnston.

At the conclusion of the program the committees served ambrosia and angel food cake.

The bazaar to be given by the club Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, in the building on South Main street now occupied by H. D. Anderson, promises to be a success. The various committees will have charge of the different booths at which will be found everything to supply one's wants. There will be the country store, the candy booth, the fancy work booth and the gift shop.

Each day turkey dinner will be served from 12 o'clock to 2 and oyster supper will be served at 6 o'clock, beginning at 6 o'clock. During the afternoon sandwiches, salad, coffee and hot chocolate will be served. A concert will be given August afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and each evening at 7:30. Music by the Statesboro Orchestra will be an attractive feature on these occasions.

It is the desire of the club to make the bazaar a success financially. Everyone is cordially invited and urged to patronize the bazaar and enjoy the concert.

DAIRY EXPERT WILL VISIT BULLOCH COUNTY

WILL BE READY TO ASSIST FARMERS TO SOLVE DAIRY PROBLEMS.

Mr. Horton of St. Louis arrived in Statesboro recently, and will be in this vicinity 3 or 4 weeks, studying the cost of producing milk and other livestock problems. Mr. Horton is in the employ of the Ralston Purina Company of St. Louis, a graduate of the University of Tennessee.

In his study of the dairy situation, Mr. Horton has found that the dairyman making the most money are those who are making a close study of the cost of production and producing their milk cheaper than the average farmer. "Little can be done by the individual farmer," declared Mr. Horton, "to raise the selling price of his products. However, a great deal can be done to lower the cost of producing it. He must produce as much home-grown roughage as the stock will eat, thus cutting the grain cost as low as possible. In producing grains he should buy that which will produce milk the cheapest. In order to determine how much it is costing to produce milk, he should keep records on his cows and weigh his milk. This will show him that cows pay, as well as what it costs to produce the milk."

"Many farmers are antagonistic to weighing their milk, claiming that it is too much trouble to get up at three o'clock in the morning and milk, to bother with the extra trouble of weighing the milk. The only reason we take this trouble is to make profit. If, by taking a few minutes' extra trouble each day, we can greatly increase that profit, we are foolish not to do it. It is truly astonishing how widely the cost of producing milk varies. With two farmers side by side, it is not unusual to find one selling milk that cost twice as much to produce as that of his neighbor."

While in this territory, Mr. Horton will be glad to show anyone how to figure the cost of producing milk and tell them how their figures compare with those of others producing milk under the same conditions. He may be reached at the establishment of Olliff & Smith, telephone 16 and 207.

Delay Can Cause Much Damage

The world often learns that much energy has been expended on a certain thing to no advantage or profit because the work has been done from the wrong angle or the approach has been wrong. This thought was prompted because of the many physical defects found in school children. Much time has been wasted and much harm has already been done the child by delay. The truth is that the inspection should be made early and the defects corrected early, not necessarily an operation, but quite often a change of diet and a change of posture prevented the trouble entirely or corrected it if it had not progressed too far. Early examination, in fact, pre-natal work is most important and is far more so than many realize.

Season For Smallpox Is Now Upon Us

The season for smallpox is at hand; the cold weather chills us up in unventilated rooms and we are in closer contact with our fellow man, consequently the winter time sees certain diseases prevailing. Smallpox is one of the diseases that we see increasing. There is a cure readily against this disease—vaccination. The baby should be vaccinated before it walks; it should be vaccinated at seven or eight years of age and after that when exposed to the disease. The new method of applying the virus does not tend to produce large scars and no bad arms unless the patient insists the sore. It requires no dressing, and above all things avoid the "vaccination shuff."

The President's Message

When corduroy, in the simple, fastenings, lightweight qualities, entered the field of negligees, it filled a long-felt want. It is an ideal material, in every respect, for making these pretty garments (of which so much is required), and it has established itself permanently in the mode.

One of the new corduroy negligees is shown in the picture, in henna color, with a silky sheen. There is quite a range in colors to choose from and corduroy is beautiful in the fashionable robe, purple, brown, blue, red, fuchsia and russet tones. Sometimes these negligees are lined in matching shade of this silk or mercerized cotton, but often they are unlined. Besides being durable they will stand washing.

BIDS BEING INVITED FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNEX

An advertisement in today's issue solicits bids for the construction of the proposed Sunday school annex for the Methodist church, the date fixed for bids to close being Tuesday of next week. F. T. Lanier is chairman of the building committee, and bids should be submitted to him. Plans may be seen at his office or at the offices of the architects, Messrs. Levy, Clarke and Bergen, Savannah. The proposed building is estimated to cost approximately $20,000.

STATES OBJECTIONS TO NO-FENCE PROPOSITION

To the Bulloch Times:

I see in last week's paper where Mr. Farmer has written on the stock law, and said that he wants to give both sides a chance to discuss the issue, so I want to give my idea on reason why I think we better go slow as to the change.

First, we have all got our farms fenced and scarcely any one wants to clear up any more land as labor is scarce and we hardly can get help to cultivate what we already have fenced. Of course we will have to do some repairing all along, but that will not cost as much as to make pastures. Then there is lots to do to get pastures where stock can have anything to feed on.

Then, there is lots of small farmers that have say one hundred acres, fifteen in cultivation; his farm is in the middle of it, and three or four roads running through his land, so he has no place he can fence for pasture, so he can't have his stock hardy at all, and what he does have, he has to raise and gather feed for. As it is he can raise his stock for his family and some to spare to the market.

AS TO MANNER OF THE DEATH OF MR. NESMITH

Mr. Dersney Nesmith, son of Wiley Nesmith, who died last week from burns, stated to the Times that a discrepancy in the statement in the paper was desired to be corrected.

The aged man was at the home of his son W. W. Nesmith (read of at the home of Dorsey Nesmith, Messrs. here of the family had left the home only a few moments when one of them came in and found the old gentleman sitting in his chair, the bedclothing about his body in flames, he apparently having fumbled the corner of the quilt into the fire. Mr. Nesmith had been in feeble health for a long time.

JOE W. BEADLES.

Joe W. Beadles, aged 45 years, died Friday, November 28th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Key, with whom he had resided for several years. His death followed a wasting illness of several years, and was particularly sad. Because of very sad reasons, he had been estranged from his people for almost twenty years, and had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Key a greater part of that time. By trade Mr. Beadles was a printer, though his health had not permitted him to follow that occupation regularly for many years. He was a very quiet and reserved man and had few acquaintances. Though in feeble health for long time, he had received every thoughtful attention from Mr. and Mrs. Key, and his last days were made more comfortable by their kindness. Mr. and Mrs. Key wish to express their appreciation for the many kindnesses rendered by friends of theirs and his during his last days.

Diphtheria Vaccinations.

There is no excuse for another death or, in fact, case of diphtheria. If such a case or death occurs, it can be charged as neglect or indifference. With the toxin-antitoxin perfected, here is no reasonable excuse for not using it on every child six months old or over. Has your baby been protected and safeguarded? How about your grandchildren? The necessary vaccine can be had of the State Board of Health for 45 cents.

There is no investment that pays the sanitation. Are your home and surroundings sanitary?

Very respectfully,
A. A. TURNER.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN SHALLOW POOL WATER

BODY OF YOUNG DICKERSON IN ROAD UNDER UNEXPLAINED CIRCUMSTANCES.

son of J. I. Dickerson, near Fort, was found in the road a mile or more from his home at an early hour Wednesday morning, face downward in a shallow stream of water.

That the man was dead when he fell into the water was made apparent upon an investigation which showed the absence of water in the lungs. There were no bruises upon the body to indicate foul play. Not because of any suspicion, but to ascertain if possible how the young man died, the organs of the stomach were shipped to Atlanta Wednesday for analysis.

According to information obtained, young Dickerson had been with other members of his family. He was turning home about 9 o'clock Tuesday night he separated from them and said he was going by a neighbor's house where a cane grinding was going on. He never returned. Early Wednesday morning the mules which he had been driving were found, still attached to the wagon, some distance from home on the road. Search revealed the body of the young man in the shallow stream, his head under water. Tracks indicated that the mules had been detained there some time.

HEALTH CERTIFICATE AND MARRIAGE

The proud and loving father and mother will advise their daughter against marriage to the extent that she is afflicted with such diseases as tuberculosis and cancer. Even sentiment will not deter them in their desire and attempt to protect their loved one and her progeny from the probability of becoming victims of such afflictions. Society will not only uphold them in their action, but even demands that the lives of its members be safeguarded.

On the other hand, however, it would seem that parental counsel is not given relative to venereal diseases, such as gonorrhea and syphilis and that society with eyes half closed condones and even sanctions them as if to say it can't be helped and let sentiment have away.

It is to be believed that, if we would put the mask of false modesty from these so-called social diseases and teach of their prevalence and the affliction and untold long suffering and their terrible consequences, it behooves society to offer the safeguard of the protection of all who would otherwise become unfortunate victims of these diseases.

The remedy as seen by our State Board of Health lies in following the lead of some of our sister states in the much needed legislation of making the presentation of a health certificate prerequisite for the application and issuing of marriage licenses. Such legal measures will not work a hardship on those who are physically fit for marriage. Those afflicted with such diseases should not be permitted to infect their wives or husbands and bring untold suffering to the innocent and perpetuate this scourge to humanity.

PLAY FRIDAY EVENING AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

"The Hoodoo," a farce comic in three acts, by Walter Ben Hur, will be presented at the High school auditorium at 8 o'clock Friday evening by pupils of the school under the direction of Mrs. Thelma Newton.

The play is most pleasing one, full of humor and laughter, and is sure to delight. Much training has been given to the pupils having part in the play, and it is expected that a large crowd will be present at its presentation.

CHANGES ARE FORECAST AMONG COUNTY EMPLOYEES

According to the announced agreement of the members of the new incoming board of county commissioners, James A. Branan will be changing superintendent and Sewell Kennedy on the county police force after January first.

Mr. Branan has held the position of road superintendent in the past and was immediate predecessor of F. F. Lane, whom he will succeed in January.

The new county policeman takes the place made vacant by the resignation of Policeman Horace Waters, held temporarily by S. A. Prosser.

SERVICES SUNDAY AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Mrs. Rogers, of Ohio, who has delighted audiences in Statesboro by the charm and sweetness of her voice, will sing an old favorite Sunday morning, "The Plains of Peace," by Barnard. The pastor will speak on "Paul; His Sanity." The second of the series in the study of Paul's character. At night he speaks on "Why Our Children Go Right or Wrong?" A live topic biblically discussed. The public is invited to attend all these services. Always welcome at the church of good fellowship.

SERVICES NEXT SUNDAY AT METHODIST CHURCH

There will be preaching both morning and evening at the Methodist church next Sunday by the pastor.

"The Golden Rule" will be the subject of the sermon at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

At the evening hour the subject of the sermon will be "The Things Seen And The Things Unseen." All who attend these services will find them helpful. Everybody is invited to be present.

The male quartet will sing at the morning service. The Misses Everitt will sing at the evening service.

Preventive Against Whooping Cough

Few diseases are so hard on young children as whooping cough. The vaccine is worthy of trial, yet we have no adequate specific. The thing to do is to keep our children from contracting the disease. It is much lighter, or rather, perhaps, much better borne by children who are older; the mortality from the disease decreases in the ratio of the increase in age. This is also true of all the infectious or contagious diseases that small children have, so it behooves all parents to protect their babies and young children against measles, chickenpox, whooping cough, mumps, scarlet fever and the like, and where possible, vaccinate them, as, for instance, diphtheria, scarlet fever and smallpox.

There is a big fireproof vault in the Capitol in Atlanta almost opposite the State Chamber where is filed, indexed and numbered every birth that is reported to the State Board of Health. It is a duty we owe our children and our state to see that they have their births filed in this vault. As our citizenship grows and our life becomes more complex it is of greater importance than ever.
